COLORADO MATTERS.

Result of the Racing at the Fair Yesterday.

More Crooked Work to Beat the Favorites.

Usual Record of Shooting, Suicides and Accidents.

State Fair Races.

DENVER, October 7.—There were about three thousand people at the state fair to day, most of whom were present as spectators of the races. In the 2.30 class Happy won in three straight heats against Sir Gibble, Maxey and Silky B. Time 2.35½, 2.30 and 2 37. Sir Gibble is the horse that Estabrook brought from Missouri.—Although he was second choice in the pools it was confidently expected he would win. Tom Molqueen, the owner of Happy, won a small fortune on the result.

Mary S. won the 1½ mile dash, novelty race, in 2.52. Her contestants were Baldy, Louis XIV. and Brown Bill. Baldy won the half in 51. He was favorite in the pools at two to one, the sales being very large. Because he failed to finish the mile and a half he was ruled out, Brown Bill being adjudged the winner of the first half. Mary S. also won the mile in 1.51. It was loudly asserted that the owners of Baldy and Louis XIV., who was also ruled out for not completing the race, had instructed their jockeys to withdraw after the first half.

A pacing race, in which Sucker State, Clyde B, Enoch Arden and Jim H were entered remains to be finished to-morrow. John H was distanced in the first heat. Sucker State won two heats and Enoch Arden two. Time, 2.38, 2.46½, 2.49 and 2 46½.

Hot Iron Explosion.

DENVER, October 6.—Four men were severely burned at Bessemer by the explosion of a red hot bar of iron. Thomas, one of injured men, is not expected to live.

A Fatal Fall

DENVER, October 6.—Yesterday afternoon John Smith, foreman of the Florence section of the Denver & Rio Grande railway, near Canon City, in attempting to jump from a hand-car to escape the approaching construction train, fell and was run over by the train, his head being nearly severed from his body.

By the Morphine Route

DENVER, October 6.—A Pitkin special of the 5th says: Flossy Holman, alias Lizzie O'Malie, an inmate of the Palace of Fun, at this place, shuffled off this mortal coil to-day, and went to the unseen world by the morphine route. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

Pueblo Shooting Scrape.

DENVER, October 6.—About 1 o'clock this morning a shooting scrape occurred in South Pueblo between two men who quarreled over a woman. Officers Gutshall and O'Conner ran to the place from whence the shots seemed to have been fired, a short distance east of Union avenue on B street, in a fruit house kept by a Frenchman named Albert Defour. The officers asked him who did the shooting and he said a man named Tom Gaynor did it. Gaynor is the keeper of a saloon on B street. The officers proceeded to the place and found Gaynor sitting in a chair, with his hand bleeding from a pistol wound, the shot having been fired by Defour. They had quarreled about a woman, hence the shooting. Both were arrested. Defour was placed in jail and Gaynor released. The wound is not dangerous, but very painful.

An Invalid Cured by Prayer

WINSTON, N. C., October 6.—A remarkable instance of the benefit of faith and prayer occurred on Friday at Muir's Chapel camp meeting. The wife of Samuel H. Taylor, who lives near New Garden, in this county, has been an invalid for two years, part of the time unable to walk at all, and for a long time compelled to go with crutches. On Friday she went to her meeting and desired the prayers of the church that she might regain the use of her limbs, and said she would not leave the church until her request was granted. When the recess for dinner was taken she refused to leave the house, but remained and passed the hour in worship. Captain R. P. Troy, who is noted as a revivalist, made an earnest appeal in prayer for Mrs. Taylor. When the benediction was pronounced at 5 p. m. she arose with the congregation and walked as well as she ever did.

RETURN OF THE HILLSDALES.

Captain Terwilliger's Opinion of Their Treatment in England.

PHILADELPHIA, October 6.—Among the passengers on the steamship Indiana, which arrived here this week from Liverpool, were the four members of the Hillsdale Rowing Club who competed last month on the Thames with a crew of the Thames Rowing Club. They were met at the wharf by a committee of the Schuylkill Navy and escorted to the Colonade hotel. The committee tendered them a banquet on behalf of the Schuylkill Navy on Tuesday evening next, but the Hillsdales were compelled to decline on account of private engagements at home.

The Hillsdale men are in good health, and Captain Terwilliger said that while he regretted the misfortunes surrounding their English visit he was satisfied that the masses in England were disposed to fair play and to show them every consideration. He said that they were barred from the races for which they were entered by the efforts of a few individuals who seemed determined to make their stay as unpleasant as possible. He expressed the firm belief that the race with the Thames crew could have been won by his men if the accident to the seat of their boat had not occurred, and he denied that the crew was in any way distressed at the time of the casualty. He confirmed this remark by producing the record of the race, which showed that after his men had stopped and allowed the English four to pass the Hillsdale boat gained several lengths on the Englishmen before the finish. He also said that the Englishmen had acknowledged that the Hillsdale four was the fastest crew they ever encountered. Two days before the race the crew rowed over the course in practice in 20 m. 17 s. A new race was asked for, but the Thames men declined to row on the day appointed, although they did appear the next day in their club regatta.

An Old Story.

CHEYENNE, October 8.—Associate Justice Field passed through this afternoon on his way from San Francisco to Washington. Your correspondent showed him the dispatch respecting an infernal machine sent him. Judge Field said the machine was received by him January 10, 1880, an account of which was published next day in the Washington papers and also appeared in Judge Field's book, "Reminiscences of Early Days of California." The machine was recently taken to a gunsmith in Washington under the judge's orders to have the fulminating powder removed to avoid accident. Judge Field further said that the man who was always suspected of sending the machine died several years ago, and the strange part of his action was that Judge Field's decision respecting the title to the ground on which San Francisco stands was really beneficial to the man, although he believed himself ruined thereby, and hence sought to kill the judge.

Tom Marshall Creates a Sensation

NEW YORK, October 6.—The following special is printed this evening from Doylestown, Pa.: Hon. Thomas Marshall created a sensation here last night. He spoke to a very enthusiastic audience. His speech was a plain, vigorous and earnest effort. He denounced Cameron and his political methods in terms of unmeasured severity. The manner of Rawles' nomination for supreme judge seemed to be particularly odious to Marshall. "Don Cameron," said Marshall, "bribed delegates to that convention for Rawles, and I am responsible for what I say when I make this assertion. Altogether that was a queer convention. The head is here to-night, sitting on the stage (pointing to ex-Attorney General Lear) so is the tail," said the speaker, buttoning up his coat and drawing himself up in a defiant attitude. "It is not often you see the head and tail both in opposition to the other parts of the organization. The delegates to that convention were bought by money."

Wrecked in a Gale.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6.—A special from quarantine says the steamship Atlantic brought from Vera Cruz forty seven sailors from five Norwegian vessels and four from an American vessel. The commander, Depew, was lost on the coast of Mexico during a gale September 9th. Of seven vessels riding at anchor off Tampico Pueblo, Mexico, five of them went ashore and are total wrecks, breaking upon the shelving beach. Barometers began to fall Friday, and both anchors were let go on each vessel. The force of the wind was so great the vessels dragged on shore in a short time and broke to pieces. No lives were lost.

Raum's Vindication.

WASHINGTON, October 6.—It is understood Internal Revenue Commissioner Raum will speedily retire from his office, whether he is successful in his ambition to succeed Senator Davis or not. It is known that Folger has for some time desired the removal of Raum. The commissioner and the secretary have had serious disagreements. Folger has objected to Raum's prolonged absence. It is asserted that Raum has resigned his office at the request of Garfield, and he subsequently asked that his resignation be withdrawn. This, however, was not permitted, as alleged, and Raum has been holding office simply until his resignation is accepted. Such, at least, is the version that has been given by the commissioner of the tenure of his office. It is believed here that he don't expect to resume his duties, at least for any length of time.

Dilemma of Oregon Republicans

NEW YORK, October 6.—The Times in an editorial says: That Mitchell should have persisted in pushing himself to the front even after a sufficient exposure of his past life and character had been made is an amazing instance of political assurance; and that he should have been opposed in his contest by a man with a reputation so damaged as that of ex-Attorney General Williams, was also surprising. The more independent of Oregon republicans refused to abide by the decision of the caucus. In many quarters this act would be treasonable and would forever bar from party connection the men who bolted. It is not known what punishment will be visited on republicans who decline to support for the United States senate a man whose very candidacy is a disgrace to the Oregon republican party. They should have voted for him according to strict party rules, although his reputation were spotted over and his various aliases were numerous and confusing as to his identity.

Vanderbilt Bluffed

CHICAGO, October 6.—A New York special says: After the trial of Mr. Frank Work's team, Edward and Dick, yesterday, Mr. T. C. Eastman, who was standing with Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt, anxiously watching them said: "They have done their best, and I will bet $10,000 to $5,000 they can't trot another mile in 2.18." "Yes," said Vanderbilt, "I'll bet $10,000 to $2,500." "I'll take that last bet," said Mr. Shepherd F. Knapp, who heard them, "providing Mr. Work will let me have his team." Mr. Work readily consented, and said he would take half of the bet, and would have his team ready in fifteen minutes. Thereupon Vanderbilt took Eastman's arm, walked away, got into his wagon, and drove from the track, remarking, "Oh, they are all blowers."

Prince of Wales' Visit

OTTAWA, ONT., October 6.—It is said the Canadian government has been informed of an intended visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to this city on the occasion of the annual meeting of the British Science association in Montreal. In that event an extended American tour will probably be arranged.

FRANK JAMES.

Surrender of the Notorious Outlaw in Missouri.

Tired of His Wandering Life He Asks for Pardon.

What He had to Say to a Press Representative.

KANSAS CITY, October 5.—The following dispatch was received at 6 o'clock this evening:

JEFFERSON CITY, October 5.

Hon. William H. Wallace:

Frank James just surrendered to me and I send him to Independence to-night, by my secretary, to turn him over to the legal authorities. Meet him there.

THOMAS A. CRITTENDEN.

Under date of St. Louis, October 1st, Frank James wrote a letter to Governor Crittenden saying, in substance, that he is anxious to be restored to citizenship; that he wants to put the past behind him; that he is heartily sick of the life of an outlaw; that he has a wife and child to plead for him and make him human, even though he were as bad as described, and he throws himself upon the mercy of the governor and asks that he be saved.

This afternoon in company with Major John N. Edwards, the former editor of the Sedalia Democrat and a life-long friend of the James boys, the noted bandit called on Governor Crittenden and gave up his pistols, saying he (Crittenden) was the first one that had touched them for more than twenty years. Mrs. Frank and Jesse James are now in the city and will go to the residence of Mrs. Ralston at Independence to await the trial of Frank. The indictments to which he will be held to answer are not known, but are supposed to be the Blue Cut, Winston and Glendale train robberies in this state, the Muncie, Kansas, and others.

The surrender is a complete surprise to almost everybody, although it is known that after the death of Jesse Frank decided to come in but the conditions could not be arranged and it was supposed he had left for Australia. He is the last of the gang except Cummings, and his whereabouts are unknown.

KANSAS CITY, October 6.—A Western Associated Press representative had an interview with Frank James this morning as he was being transferred by train from Independence to Kansas City. On board the train were Prosecuting Attorney Wallace, Marshal Murphy, Sheriff Timberlake, and a number of reporters. Along the route James was frequently recognized by old confederates of his guerilla days. He is five feet nine, spare but sinewy, light blue eyes, small blonde mustache, hair a shade darker, complexion sallow, manner quiet, language ordinary, dress unobtrusive. He said though the governor had not promised immunity he had at last decided himself to a long-contemplated act and surrendered. He believed if tried on any single charge alone he won't be convicted and hopes that if convicted the governor will interfere. He desires to lead a quiet life with his family as he did from April '77 to April '80 upon a rented farm near Nashville, Tennessee. He refuses to state where he has been since April '81, but read in the New York Herald the news of the shooting of Jesse the day after it occurred. He has been out of the Allegheanies and in Kentucky in the past year. He has been much maligned. He never wrote a letter threatening to avenge Jesse's death. He remarked of the country that there was mighty good bush-whacking timber and he knew every foot of it.

The prisoner said he had come to Missouri on September 23, with the purpose of surrendering. Previous to that time he said he had not been in the state for a year. He said: "I come to Missouri to try to regain home and standing among her people. I have been outside her laws for twenty-one years. I have been hunted like a wild animal from one state to another; I have known no home; I have slept in all sorts of places, here to-day and there to-morrow; I have been charged with nearly every great crime committed in either Missouri or her neighboring states; I have been taught to suspect my dearest and nearest friend of treachery, and where is the end to be? I am tired of this life; of night riding and hiding; of constant listening for footfalls, crackling twigs, rustling leaves and creaking doors; tired of seeing Judas on the face of every friend I own, and goodness knows I have none to spare; tired of the saddle, the revolver and cartridge belt; tired of the hoofs and horns with which the popular belief has equipped me, and I want to see if there is not some way out of it. I think I can give the state a substantial return for what I ask and I think the dignity of the law will not suffer. I shall prove myself worthy of mercy."

With all the sentiment which necessarily surrounds a history so mysterious and an event so dramatic there rests the conviction among citizens generally that the law should take its impartial course and justice be meted as it seems best.

KANSAS CITY, October 6.—There was no examination of James to-day. He will be locked up in the jail at Independence to-night and will possibly be examined Saturday.

CHICAGO, October 6.—It has been discovered that Frank James spent last week in this city, sleeping at night at the Sherman house under the name of Pratt, and spending his days at the west side in consultation with friends from Missouri with reference to his surrender. The letter to Governor Crittenden is said to have been written here and carried to St. Louis for mailing. A United States deputy marshal became aware of his presence here and swore out a warrant before the United States commissioner charging James with robbing the United States mail. For some unknown reason, however, he made no effort to arrest his man. James left for Missouri Monday afternoon. Previous to coming here he was at Quebec and Cleveland.

Tug Wilson's Deceit.

NEW YORK, October 6.—The prize fight for $5,000 and the championship of the world between Tug Wilson, of Leicester, England, and James Elliott, of this city, is "off." Tug Wilson, it will be remembered, shortly after the match was arranged at the Police Gazette office, and $1,000 posted with William F. McCoy, of No. 91 South street, notified Richard K. Fox that he was going to England to bring over his family, and that he would return by October 2d. Mr. Fox placed full confidence in Wilson, paid him a large sum of money per contract, and went to Philadelphia to see him off. On Wilson's arrival in England he was made a hero of, and having made $5,000 in America decided not to return. Yesterday the second deposit in the match was to have been posted with Wm. F. McCoy. Elliott's backer's funds were ready, and Richard K. Fox, who was certain that Wilson would return, was willing a check to send to the stakeholder when he received a cable dispatch saying that Tug Wilson would not return to America to fight Elliott. On receiving this dispatch Mr. Fox was for a moment dumbfounded, for he was certain Tug Wilson would return when he allowed him to put up the $500. Owing to Wilson's conduct the great match is off, and Elliott wins the $1,000 without fighting for it, and Richard K. Fox is $500 out of pocket.

Cyclone at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 6. The American ship Hagerstown, which arrived here to-night, one hundred and forty-one days out from New York, reports having encountered a cyclone on the 12th of September. The gale lasted three and a half hours. Portions of her rigging were carried away, and there were seven feet of water in her hold at one time. The vessel narrowly escaped foundering. Captain Pierce was washed overboard, but rescued, and a number of the crew were injured by falling spars.

Carpenter's Acceptance.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., October 6.—B. Platt Carpenter has written a letter accepting the republican nomination for lieutenant-governor of New York. It is a lengthy document, deals with the crookedness in the convention, defending the body of delegates against the unworthy men who thus sought to injure the party in the state and enumerates the principles which will govern him if elected.

College Notes.

The Occidental club elected the following officers: President, George F. Owen, vice-president, Samuel C. Day; secretary, Harry H. Seldonridge, member of the executive committee, Edward H. Turner. As I said in my last notes this society is very much crippled, but this is a place which it can fill, if it has the mind. A generous rivalry between the two societies will not be harmful to either. I trust, as one somewhat interested in this matter, that the rivalry between the societies will not lead to personal ill-feeling. There has been too much bitterness at the college during the last year, and if this bitterness can now be laid aside, a good point will be made. Let each society go its own way, doing what it can for its growth.

How many of the bolters have been or are to be expelled, I cannot at this time say.

President Tenney and family have gone east. The president will probably return about Christmas, while his family will remain till next summer.

Another student's prayer meeting was held in Professor Sheldon's room last Tuesday. The attendance, though not so large as at the preceding one, was good.

A new method of arranging the pupils has been hit upon. They are given seats in the various rooms about the building, and, according to announcement, are to occupy these seats when at the building and not reciting. It may be that circumstances make necessary some such arrangement. But however that may be, the arrangement in itself is bad. The opportunities for study in a room in which the professor is "stirring up" one of the kid Latin classes are not the best possible.

The hours set for meals at the club are not very closely adhered to. Indeed, the club is too generally behind time.

The professor of mathematics was so fascinated yesterday with the beauties of the subject that he kept a class till about one o'clock. The class were not so much fascinated.

Student in astronomy—Professor, does cos stand for cosmos?

The boarding club sitting room is ornate with a piece of statuary, Roger's "Coming to the Parson." The tender way in which the two gizzlies are holding each other's hands, the elegant arrangement of the future bridegroom's foot and a dog, the beautiful curve of the cat's back, and the graceful way in which the sheet is wound around the prospective bride's head, make up a glorious and touching scene. I suppose that this group is considered valuable not because of its intrinsic beauty only, but also because of its probable effect among so many young people.

A constitution was adopted and officers were elected for the new literary society last evening. The society is turned loose on the world with the absurd name Irving Institute. The constitution as a whole is very good, though it might perhaps have been shorter. The length is increased by a system of fines which is quite likely to be either a dead letter or a nuisance, or a dead letter and a nuisance, and by a preamble, which, probably harmless, is likewise probably useless. But notwithstanding the features which seem to me objectionable, the society—I mean institute—starts in life with good prospects. The following persons were elected officers for the short and long terms, that is to serve six weeks from last night: John R. Pickett, president; George Soule, vice president; Jennie Marden, secretary; James D. Ellsworth, treasurer; C. C. Wright, sergeant-at-arms. The president, vice president and sergeant-at-arms are ex officio the executive committee.

Mr. A. H. Partridge, as college clerk, will be in charge of the library and a portion of the college building until the return of the financial secretary, Judge Seveg.

Mr. Jameson is a new student.

A paper published at Dolores speaks of L. D. Ruffle as a "bonanza king." We hope so.

SCHOOL STATISTICS.

Annual Report of the County Superintendent of Schools.

What Progress Has Been Made in Our Schools.

A Good Showing as Compared with 1881.

Mr. B. A. P. Eaton, superintendent of schools for El Paso county, has just finished his report for the year ending August 31st and from it we are kindly allowed to gather some facts which will no doubt be of not a little interest to many of our readers.

There are now in El Paso county twenty-eight organized school districts whose secretaries have, without exception, sent in their reports to the county superintendent. It will be seen that the number of school districts in the county is increasing every year. In 1880 according to the annual report there were in the county twenty-four districts; in 1881 twenty-five, and this year the superintendent reports twenty-eight, an increase of three over last year. The total school population of El Paso county is now 2,052, of which number 1,015 are males and 1,037 females, this being an increase of 141 pupils over last year's report. This number only includes children between the ages of 6 and 21. According to the report there are in the county 1,627 children between the ages of 6 and 21 and 425 between the ages of 16 and 21. There are enrolled in the graded schools 811 children, of which number 398 are males and 413 females. In the ungraded schools there are 1,026 children, 490 being males and 536 females. Of this number 740 are under 16 years of age and 286 over 16. The total number of pupils enrolled in the public schools was 1,837. Thus it will be seen that only about 215 pupils in the county do not attend school at all, while in 1881 the number who did not attend was 606.

The salaries of teachers and considerable information are given in Superintendent Eaton's report. It shows that the average of monthly salaries paid to male teachers in the graded schools of the county is $100, while the female teachers in the same grade are paid an average monthly salary of $60, or less than one half the amount paid to male. In the ungraded schools it is shown that the average amount paid both males and females is about $34. According to the report the number of teachers employed in the graded schools of the county are eleven, three being only one male and ten females. In the ungraded there are thirty-one teachers employed, twenty seven of whom are females and four males.

In 1881, there was in the county but one person of school age who was unable to either read or write, but this year the number is increased to nine, four being under and five over 16 years of age. Five of these are males and four females. Thus it will be seen that illiteracy is either on the increase or Mr. Eaton has taken more trouble to ascertain just how many illiterate people there were in the county.

No report is made on the number of deaf mute and blind people of school age residing in the county.

The average cost per month for educating each pupil in the graded schools during the year 1882 has been $2.30, a decrease of 13 cents per month since 1880; while in the ungraded schools the cost per month for each pupil foots up to $4.58, an increase of 6 cents per pupil over 1880.

During the year 1881 no school bonds have been issued and none redeemed. The present bonded indebtedness of El Paso county for school purposes is $25,000. For 1881 the lowest average tax for school purposes was two mills, and the highest average tax for any one district was fifteen mills.

There are now in El Paso county twenty-three school houses valued at, including sites, furniture, etc., $48,450. While the school houses in the county have decreased two in number, there has been an increase in their valuation just $2,000.

During the year twenty-five applicants were examined for teachers' certificates, of which number four were males and twenty-one females. First grade certificates were issued to the number of six, second grade to the number of eleven, and third grade to the number of three. Of the certificates issued, three were to males and seventeen to females.

MOUNTAIN WONDERS.

What a Recent Visitor to the Black Canon Has to Say of It.

Denver Times.

Mr. W. H. Jackson, whose photographs of the wild and beautiful scenery of Colorado have been recognized as the perfection of art, as represented by the camera, has just returned from a trip to "the front" on the Utah extension of the Denver & Rio Grande railway. As the results of this journey he has secured some of the most beautiful views of some of the most beautiful scenery on the continent.

The trip just concluded by Mr. Jackson is one of unusual interest. From Gunnison City the railway follows the river of the same name passing through three cañons with intervening valleys until Sapinero, at the mouth of Soap creek, a romantic stream endowed with a most unromantic name, is reached. A mile or two below Sapinero the Black cañon begins and extends for nearly thirty miles. For ten miles the road runs through the cañon, the last twenty being avoided by a turn to the southward up Cimarron creek. It is a mile and a half up this stream to the mouth of Squaw creek, rising one hundred and twenty-five feet, the five and a half miles to the top of the divide between the Cimarrón and the Uncompahgre rising 1,116 feet.

From this point it is seventeen miles down Cedar creek to the Uncompahgre at Montrose. The business of Ouray, San Miguel and Telluride will be done at this point. The San Miguel is a fine stock country and Ouray and Telluride are already famous for their mines.

The grand cañon of the Gunnison, or as it is more generally known, Black cañon, is sui generis, Mr. Jackson thinks it is more lovely than any of its rivals, and in some parts of its bold and rugged course is quite as grand and awful. Its towering rocky walls are veiled in verdure by clinging pines, amidst whose swaying boughs the mountain breezes make marvelous melody. Here and there slender waterfalls come trailing down, waving in the wind like white banners on the outer wall of some medieval keep. The river rolls below, now flatted into foam by narrowing walls and cumbering rocks, now broadening into peaceful pools reflecting each soaring pinnacle with the blue skies over all.

In the cañon's deepest recesses, midway in its course, Cathedral mountain raises its spires to heaven. Isolated, inaccessible and lone, the haunt of the black eagle, this solitary peak awes the beholders with its solemn grandeur.

Above Curricanti is the culmination of all these wonders. The towering walls close in and frown darkly down upon the struggling stream, here breaking into impetuous rapids, which the railway crosses at a dizzy height. As the train moves down the narrow iron trail a monolith of weather-stained and blackened quartzite, springing into the air a thousand feet above the swirling cataracts, challenges the attention. Other towers, less perfect but more massive, rise upon the right and guard the entrance to this tremendous pass.

Mr. Jackson concludes that for variety of scene, for magnitude in form, for beauty in coloring, for soft effects of foliage, for lovely waterfalls, for foaming cataracts, for weird and darkling dells, for solemn solitudes, for majestic and sublime heights, for depths, for all that delights the eye, or thrills the soul, or enters the heart, the Black canon of the Gunnison is the equal of any any of the wonders of Colorado, the land of wonders.

The porte has promised to vacate ceded positions on the Greek frontier.

The German liberals are hopeful of making some gains in the coming elections.

The skeleton of a mastodon has been discovered in Bourbon county, Kentucky.

It is reported that the prince and princess of Wales are likely to visit Canada and afterwards make an extended American tour.

It is reported that the estate of the late Mrs. Lincoln includes government bonds to the amount of $72,000. She would not seem to have been as poor as was sometimes represented.

Senator Sherman is reported as expecting to see ex President Hayes take the seat in the senate now held by Senator Pendleton. Hayes was a good president and would no doubt be a good senator.

We want to add our opinion that the religious opinions of the candidates are not proper questions in this canvass. A man's moral character is an important question for voters. His religion is not.

There is a report that the Mutual Union and the Western Union Telegraph companies are to be consolidated, the process beginning at Chicago. But the intention of consolidating the Chicago offices is officially denied.

There was a very provoking error in yesterday's GAZETTE. In our introduction to the sketch of the democratic nominee for governor of New York, the types said Governor Cleveland. We intended they should say Grover Cleveland.

It is said that Secretary Folger and Mr. Raum, the commissioner of internal revenue, do not get along very well and that Raum's early retirement from his present position may be expected. He wants to be the next senator from Illinois.

The point is well made that it is not creditable to the republicans of Oregon that ex Senator Mitchell and ex Attorney general Williams should be the chief candidates for the United States senate. The republicans who bolted Mitchell are entitled to thanks.

Frank James, brother of the notorious Jesse James, who was killed a few months ago, supposed to have taken part in many crimes, has surrendered to the authorities. We suppose the law will deal leniently with this illustrious citizen of the grand old state of Missouri.

B. Platt Carpenter has accepted the republican nomination for lieutenant-governor of New York. His letter resembles Judge Folger's in that it is lengthy and enters into the discussion of the methods of the late convention. From what we learn, we doubt whether Carpenter's name adds much strength to the ticket.

Congressman Butterworth of Ohio has invented another way of expressing one sort of demagogic nonsense about the river and harbor bill. "The truth of the matter is that we "have staked a great national cow with her "fore feet on this side of the Alleghenies and "her hind quarters on the other side. The "people of the west have been feeding her "and the people of the east milking her, and "now we propose to turn the animal around."

Hon. Thomas Marshall made a very striking speech at Doylestown, Pennsylvania, night before last. He unsparingly denounced Cameron and said that to nominate Rawles for the position of supreme judge bribery had been resorted to. Ex Attorney general Lear, who was chairman of the Cameron convention, was on the stage. "We fear some of our exchanges will find difficulty in explaining Mr. Marshall's action. A very common method in such cases is to say that the person has wanted an office and not got it. In this particular case there will be some trouble with this plea. For Mr. Marshall was nominated for congressman at large by the Cameron convention and declined the nomination, although he stood a better chance of election than any one else on the ticket. The chances for the defeat of machinedom in Pennsylvania seem very good indeed, and many a true republican in other states will anxiously wait for this result.

Mr. Jay A. Hubbell, member of congress from Michigan and chairman of the republican congressional committee, is beginning to suspect that things are changing, though he probably does not understand that the world moves. The following remarks were made by the illustrious Hubbell to a newspaper reporter. "The executive committee has adopted a plan for raising funds and is carrying "out the same. That is all there "is to it." And yet Hubbell shows a lurking sense that that "is not all there is to it," for presently he breaks out. "This outcry against the committee and myself is simply ridiculous. Why, bless my soul, two years ago, during the Garfield canvass, I did things a long sight more brash than I am doing now, and not a word was said against me. No scheme was too bold for me. Not alone did I send out circulars asking for money, but I personally wrote bulldozing letters to different people holding office. First I demanded two per cent on their salaries, and when more money was needed I demanded an extra one per cent, and I got it too, don't forget that. Yet, far from being censured, my action was indorsed by all the republican leaders. Hubbell was a smart fellow then, a true republican, a patriot, and God only knows what else. But this year, although we have avoided publicity and gone on with our work as quietly and unostentatiously as possible a huge outcry is made, and we are ranked by a portion of the press with blacklegs and highway robbers. What would be said now, I should just like to know, if some of the letters I wrote in 1880 were published!"

PERSONAL

Bismarck is well again, takes lots of exercise and does piles of business.

Miss Emily MacTavish a Baltimore belle and the grand daughter of General Winfield Scott, has taken the veil in the convent of Mount De Sales.

James Russell Lowell, who has been reciting at Whitby, has returned to London and is sitting for a portrait when he has nothing else to do.

There is hope for even Burmah. A type foundry is to be established at Rangoon to meet the demand arising from the increased amount of printing in the vernacular.

Lady Hannah Shepherd Havelock, widow of Sir Henry Havelock, of Lucknow fame, died recently at her home in Kensington palace gardens. Parliament gave her a pension of $1 000 a year.

Miss Helen Hathers Reeves, author of "Comin Thro' the Rye" and other light novels, is the wife of a London doctor and a beautiful woman, graceful in figure and with a "refined, gentle and radiant" face.

The son of Mark Lemon the famous editor of Punch, has just died at Melbourne, Australia, where he was reduced to such poverty that he had been working, under an assumed name, as supernumerary in a theater.

Lieutenant Willard Young, one of the great Brigham's many sons is teacher of engineering at West Point. When his father's estate was settled up he was given a lot of railroad stock, supposed to be worthless but the development of the territory increased its value many fold, and Willard is now one of the richest heirs.

The king of Sweden is a helpful sort of sovereign. Some years ago he saved a large banking house, upon which a run was made without cause by making it known that he had deposited his private fortune with the firm, and now it is said he has insured his life for 600 000 crowns to re-establish the credit of a tottering life insurance company.

The Moon a Clock

Talks About Science—Dunman.

You will thus see that had you got a clock which always kept good time, and could carry that with you, you could always tell your longitude by looking at the stars or sun, and comparing Greenwich time with your time. Unfortunately, clocks and chronometers, although constructed on the most approved principles, and very wonderful machines, will not keep right for very long together, consequently, on a long voyage, the chronometer, however well it may behave when it is always in the same temperature, will invariably get out of order, you cannot, therefore, trust to your chronometer. There is a clock that you can trust, however. When you look at an ordinary clock you see that it consists of a dial on which are marked certain figures, and from the center two hands move round it. But supposing, instead of having such a clock as that, you had one with the marks put on not at regular distances, but anywhere, and instead of having two hands it had only one, which, instead of going regularly round the dial, simply wandered about in a peculiar manner, now over one dot now over another, with the most irregular motion, you would say you had a very bad clock, and that the man who made the clock ought never to make another. Very true, but supposing it was the only clock you had and you could not possibly get another, you would set to work to learn it to learn what was the exact time for every possible position of that one hand over and among the various marks on the dial. Well, sailors have got a clock just like that. The dial-plate is the sky, and the marks on the dial plate are the stars. The one hand is the moon, and the sailor has the means of telling the exact Greenwich time by that clock by simply noticing the exact position of the moon among the stars. There is published in London a wonderful almanac, called the "Nautical Almanac," which is published every five years in advance, and in that almanac there is laid down the exact Greenwich mean time for every possible position of the moon among the stars. Consequently, all that the sailor has to do is to find out the exact position of the moon among the stars and turn to the "Nautical Almanac," and having found that position against it he will see marked the exact Greenwich time. That is what is called the lunar theory of finding the longitude. I don't know of anybody else ever having attempted to make that most abstruse subject clear to a popular audience.

Legal Procedure in Egypt

Pall Mall Gazette.

Two incidents illustrating native legal procedure in Egypt are given this morning by correspondents of the English newspapers at Alexandria. The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

It is only a few days since I had reason to protest against the torture which was being practiced here by the Egyptian courts-martial in order to extort evidence or confessions. I regret to say that, despite the presence of the English in Alexandria, these deplorable incidents still continue. Yesterday at the governor's house screams were heard by an English officer, who was transacting some business in one of the rooms there. He entered an adjoining apartment and found an old man under the thumbscrew, writhing in agony. A young Egyptian officer smiled his welcome to the Englishman, and, in order to show his zeal, called up the prisoner, who came to him hurriedly, believing he was about to be relieved from his awful agony. Unhappily he was profoundly mistaken, for the Egyptian official at once laid hold of his beard, shook him brutally, seized his maimed hands and viciously gave the thumbscrew some further turns. My informant left the place feeling sick with disgust, and not only he, but every one who knows of this incident feels that while English influence is predominant here these revolting practices ought to be stopped.

The other incident is narrated by the correspondent of the Morning Advertiser. He says that while driving through the city he accidentally ran down an Arab. A crowd assembled and an Arab seized the horse's head. Some soldiers arrived and the Arab was arrested and taken for trial before an Egyptian military court, presided over by Osman Pasha, formerly minister of war, with eight colonels and some captains.

The poor wretch, under the custody of British soldiers, was handcuffed and brought into the room. As soon as he saw us he fell upon his knees and extended his manacled arms beseechingly, while the tears rolled down the ugly black face, whose coarser lines were almost softened by his agony of supplication. The charge was then read. To our surprise, we found that the soldiers had reported that we were seized and dragged from our carriage. The prisoner heard the charge with obvious horror. Whoever may have taken us from our carriage, this much was certain, that this man had not done so. The court had coffee three times and cigarettes ad. lib. during the time the trial was going on. The testimony was taken in a languid sort of way. Finally it was all over, and the court came with the witnesses into an adjoining room, where more coffee and cigarettes were had. Then they asked if we would be satisfied to have the man shot. One could not ask more and we did not want as much, and suggested flogging. So four dozen were ordered and fifteen years of hard labor imposed.

The Hotels in the Yellowstone.

From the St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press, September 18.

Henry P. Douglas, of Fort Yates, Dakota, one of the prime movers in the new company which is to furnish the Yellowstone Park with hotel and transportation facilities, was in St. Paul a few hours yesterday. Mr. Douglass says no time will be lost in making the most of the facilities granted by the government, and already saw mills and supplies have been purchased and will be put up at once, so that the company can take care of tourists during the summer of 1883, when a very large number are expected. Three hotels are to be put up and the site of the largest has been fixed upon at the Mammoth spring. One of the others will probably be on Fire Hole river, at Sheridan's geyser, known as Hell's Half Acre, this being the nearest practicable point within the park to the Utah Northern railway, as the larger hotel is nearest the Northern Pacific. The site of the third hotel has not been fixed upon, but it will most probably be on Yellowstone lake, upon which Gen. James Brisbin has secured the privilege of placing a steamboat. He is to be allowed to own one steamer on the lake and the company will own any others that may be placed there within the next ten years, as also the row and sail boats. The Northern Pacific intends to run its branch line from Benson's Landing to the edge of the park early next spring, and the Park Improvement company will put on stages to connect with the railway, which will be sixty miles long, over the route previously described. The stage ride from the terminus of the Northern Pacific to the largest hotel will be only ten miles long. Stages are also to be run to the Utah Northern which has determined to build a branch to the edge of the park very speedily. This stage ride will be longer than the other, but the scenery is said to be enchanting. It is believed that arrangements will be made for the issuance of round trip tickets reading via Utah Northern and Union Pacific coming into the park and Northern Pacific returning, or a reversal in the order.

Various Causes

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition all operate to turn the hair gray and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak, or sickly hair, on which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its results, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye; and will not soil or color white cambric, yet it lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous, imparting an agreeable perfume.

Telegraph Consolidation.

THE REPORT DENIED.

Chicago, October 6.—Colonel Clowry, general superintendent of the Western Union telegraph, denies most positively that there is any truth in the story that that company is ...ont to consolidate the Chicago office with the Mutual Union. Superintendent Chapman ... the latter company is no less emphatic in his denial of the report.

Denver Pool.

Chicago, October 6.—The general managers of the Union Pacific, Burlington, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Denver and Rio Grande railways meet here on Monday to consider the percentage for pool between Missouri river points and Denver. Two conferences to this end have already been held, but agreement was defeated.

Mining Market.

New York, October 6.—Mining stocks dull. Robinson sold at 1.60 and 1.65; Decatur 70 to 74, closing 70; Chrysolite 1.85 to 1.90, and Independence 1.41 to 1.35. Sales for the day 74,730 shares.

Mexican Matters.

City of Mexico, October 6. It is denied that the health of President Gonzales will necessitate his retirement. The finances of the country are even more promising than last year. The secretary of the treasury, speaking of the abolition of export duty on silver next month and of the new duty of half of one per cent. says this half is not an export tax, but is to be levied on all silver produced in the country.

Kentucky Mastodon.

Louisville, October 6.—The skeleton of an immense mastodon has been unearthed near Paris, in Bourbon county, on Joseph Mitchell's farm, by workmen who were making an excavation for a railroad. There was great difficulty in securing the remains in good shape, but some fine specimens were obtained with the following measurements: Front leg, from the ankle to the top of the shoulder blade, fourteen feet seven inches; ankle seven inches in diameter; shoulder blade, three feet two inches wide; head, five feet in length; jaw bone, twelve inches thick; gum, with teeth nearly all in a good state of preservation and weighing one to three pounds each; length from head to tail, forty feet, and hind leg twenty-three feet eight inches. The remains were found in a bed of steatite.

Eastern News.

Athens, October 6.—The porte has promised Greece it will order the Turks to evacuate the ceded points on the frontier including Gounitza on Thursday.

Alexandria, October 6. There are eighty cases of typhoid fever in Ramleh hospital.

Ralston's Summer Home.

W. H. Bishop, in Harper's for October.

The Ralston house, at Belmont, now in the possession of Senator Sharon, is that perhaps having the greatest interest of all. The remarkable man who built it was of the traditional California type in its most astonishing development. Starting from an humble origin, he became a forwarder of every brilliant scheme of improvement, public and private, and conducted a hundred projects to success which in other hands would have been sheer folly. He arrived thus at an unbounded confidence in his star. Entangled finally while cashier of the Bank of California, he handed in his resignation to the directors one day, and went down to the public baths near Potrero. A strong, athletic man, in the prime of life, he swam out half a mile into the bay—for refreshment in his troubles, as some say, but, as the general opinion is, with the deliberate purpose of suicide—and was never again seen alive. The house that was his is notched into a hill-side, in a rolling country, much pleasanter than the plain at Menlo Park. A pretty gorge behind it is dammed at a certain level to furnish the water supply. There are gas-works, a bowling-alley, and an elaborate Turkish bath among the outbuildings, and a grange-like barn of solid stone, ivy-grown now, which cost $80,000. As to the immense residence itself, that is of wood, white, in the usual fashion. With its numerous stories and windows, it is not unlike a large country hotel without, but its peculiar arrangements and great spaciousness within make it quite palatial. The principal rooms open into one another by glass partitions, which can be rolled away. There is no crowding through doorways. There is an arcade in the story above, around the grand staircase, with a balustrade, in which young women in pink and corn-color at an evening party must look particularly houri-like. What in any other house would be the ordinary veranda is here a delightful promenade, glazed in, provided with easy furniture and a parquetry floor. Then comes a tier of such main apartments as a drawing-room and library; then a parallel tier, of which one is a great gallery, entirely faced with mirrors. There are a piano, mantels and stair-posts of California laurel.

In the Whole History of Medicine

No preparation has ever performed such marvellous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in throat and chest disorders, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and operation, physicians use the Cherry Pectoral extensively in their practice, and clergymen recommend it. It is absolutely certain in its healing effects, and will always cure where cures are possible.

For sale by all druggists.

We want to add our opinion that the religious opinions of the candidates are not proper questions in this canvass A man's moral character is an important question for voters His religion is not.

There is a report that the Mutual Union and the Western Union Telegraph companies are to be consolidated, the process beginning at Chicago But the intention of consolidating the Chicago offices is officially denied

Congressman Butterworth of Ohio has invented another way of expressing one sort of demegogic nonsense about the river and harbor bill "The truth of the matter is that we have raised a great national cow with her fore feet on this side of the Alleghenies and her hind quarters on the other side The people of the west have been feeding her and the people of the east milking her, and how we propose to turn the animal around"

Hon Thomas Marshall made a very striking speech at Doylestown, Pennsylvania, night before last He unsparingly denounced Cameron and said that to nominate Rawles for the position of supreme judge bribery had been resorted to Ex-Attorney general Lear, who was chairman of the Cameron convention, was on the stage We fear some of our exchanges will find difficulty in explaining Mr Marshall's action A very common method in such cases is to say that the person has wanted an office and not got it In this particular case there will be some trouble with this plea For Mr Marshall was nominated for congressman at large by the Cameron convention and declined the nomination, although he stood a better chance of election than any one else on the ticket The chances for the defeat of machineism in Pennsylvania seem very good indeed, and many a true republican in other states will anxiously wait for this result

Mr Jay A Hubbell, member of congress from Michigan and chairman of the republican congressional committee, is beginning to suspect that things are changing, though he probably does not understand that the world moves The following remarks were made by the illustrious Hubbell to a newspaper reporter The executive committee has adopted a plan for raising funds and is carrying "out the same That is all there is to it." And yet Hubbell shows a lurking sense that "that" is not "all there is to it," for presently he breaks out "This outcry against the committee and myself is simply ridiculous Why, bless my soul, two years ago, during the Garfield canvass, I did things a long sight more brash than I am doing now, and not a word was said against me No scheme was too bold for me Not alone did I send out circulars asking for money, but I personally wrote bulldozing letters to different people holding office. First I demanded two per cent on their salaries, and when more money was needed I demanded an extra one per cent, and I got it too, don't forget that. Yet, far from being censured, my action was indorsed by all the republican leaders Hubbell was a smart fellow then, a true republican, a patriot, and God only knows what else But this year, although we have avoided publicity and gone on with our work as quietly and unostentatiously as possible, a huge outcry is made, and we are ranked by a portion of the press with blacklegs and highway robbers. What would be said now, I should just like to know, if some of the letters I wrote in 1880 were published"

The Moon a Clock

Talks About Science—Dunman.

You will thus see that had you got a clock which always kept good time, and could carry that with you, you could always tell your longitude by looking at the stars or sun, and comparing Greenwich time with your time Unfortunately, clocks and chronometers, although constructed on the most approved principles, and very wonderful machines, will not keep right for very long together, consequently, on a long voyage, the chronometer, however well it may behave when it is always in the same temperature, will invariably get out of order you cannot, therefore, trust to your chronometer There is a clock that you can trust, however When you look at an ordinary clock you see that it consists of a dial on which are marked certain figures, and from the center two hands move round it But supposing, instead of having such a clock as that, you had one with the marks put on, not at regular distances, but anywhere, and instead of having two hands it had only one, which, instead of going regularly round the dial, simply wandered about in a peculiar manner, now over one dot, now over another, with the most irregular motion, you would say you had a very bad clock, and that the man who made the clock ought never to make another Very true, but supposing it was the only clock you had and you could not possibly get another, you would set to work to learn it—to learn what was the exact time for every possible position of that one hand over and among the various marks on the dial Well, sailors have got a clock just like that. The dial-plate is the sky, and the marks on the dial plate are the stars The one hand is the moon, and the sailor has the means of telling the exact Greenwich time by that clock by simply noticing the exact position of the moon among the stars. There is published in London a wonderful almanac, called the 'Nautical Almanac," which is published every five years in advance, and in that almanac there is laid down the exact Greenwich mean time for every possible position of the moon among the stars (Consequently, all that the sailor has to do is to find out the exact position of the moon among the stars and turn to the "Nautical Almanac," and having found that position against it he will see marked the exact Greenwich time That is what is called the lunar theory of finding the longitude I don't know of anybody else ever having attempted to make that most abstruse subject clear to a popular audience

Legal Procedure in Egypt

Pall Mall Gazette

Two incidents illustrating native legal procedure in Egypt are given this morning by correspondents of the English newspapers at Alexandria The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says

It is only a few days since I had reason to protest against the torture which was being practiced here by the Egyptian courts martial in order to extort evidence or confessions I regret to say that, despite the presence of the English in Alexandria, these deplorable incidents still continue Yesterday at the governor's house screams were heard by an English officer, who was transacting some business in one of the rooms there He entered an adjoining apartment and found an old man under the thumbscrew, writhing in agony A young Egyptian officer smiled his welcome to the Englishman, and, in order to show his zeal, called up the prisoner, who came to him hurriedly, believing he was about to be relieved from his awful agony Unhappily he was profoundly mistaken, for the Egyptian official at once laid hold of his beard, shook him brutally, seized his maimed hands and viciously gave the thumbscrew some further turns My informant left the place feeling sick with disgust, and not only he, but every one who knows of this incident feels that while English influence is predominant here these revolting practices ought to be stopped

The other incident is narrated by the correspondent of the Morning Advertiser He says that while driving through the city he accidentally ran down an Arab A crowd assembled and an Arab seized the horse's head Some soldiers arrived and the Arab was arrested and taken for trial before an Egyptian military court, presided over by Osman Pasha, formerly minister of war, with eight colonels and some captains

The poor wretch, under the custody of British soldiers, was handcuffed and brought into the room As soon as he saw us he fell upon his knees and extended his manacled arms beseechingly, while the tears rolled down the ugly black face, whose coarser lines were almost softened by his agony of supplication The charge was then read To our surprise, we found that the soldiers had reported that we were seized and dragged from our carriage The prisoner heard the charge with obvious horror Whoever may have taken us from our carriage, this much was certain, that this man had not done so The court had coffee three times and cigarettes and lib during the time the trial was going on, The testimony was taken in a languid sort of way Finally it was all over, and the court came with the witnesses into an adjoining room, where more coffee and cigarettes were had Then they asked if we would be satisfied to have the man shot One could not ask more and we did not want as much, and suggested flogging. So four dozen were ordered and fifteen years of hard labor imposed

From the St Paul (Minn) Pioneer-Press, September 18

Henry F Douglas, of Fort Yates, Dakota, one of the prime movers in the new company which is to furnish the Yellowstone Park with hotel and transportation facilities, was in St Paul a few hours yesterday Mr Douglass says no time will be lost in making the most of the facilities granted by the government, and already saw mills and supplies have been purchased and will be put up at once, so that the company can take care of tourists during the summer of 1883, when a very large number are expected Three hotels are to be put up and the site of the largest has been fixed upon at the Mammoth spring One of the others will probably be on Fire Hole river, at Sheridan's geyser, known as Hell's Half Acre, this being the nearest practicable point within the park to the Utah Northern railway, as the larger hotel is nearest the Northern Pacific The site of the third hotel has not been fixed upon, but it will most probably be on Yellowstone lake, upon which Gen James Brisbin has secured the privilege of placing a steamboat. He is to be allowed to own one steamer on the lake and the company will own any others that may be placed there within the next ten years, as also the row and sail boats The Northern Pacific intends to run its branch line from Benson's Landing to the edge of the park early next spring, and the Park Improvement company will put on stages to connect with the railway, which will be sixty miles long, over the route previously described The stage ride from the terminus of the Northern Pacific to the largest hotel will be only ten miles long Stages are also to be run to the Utah Northern, which has determined to build a branch to the edge of the park very speedily This stage ride will be longer than the other, but the scenery is said to be enchanting It is believed that arrangements will be made for the issuance of round-trip tickets reading via Utah Northern and Union Pacific coming into the park and Northern Pacific returning, or a reversal in the order.

Ralston's Summer Home.

7. H. Bishop, in Harper's for October.

The Ralston house, at Belmont, now in the ossession of Senator Sharon, is that perhaps aving the greatest interest of all. The re- markable man who built it was of the tradi- onal California type in its most astonishing evelopment. Starting from an humble ori- in, he became a forwarder of every brilliant cheme of improvement, public and private, nd conducted a hundred projects to success which in other hands would have been sheer olly. He arrived thus at an unbounded con- dence in his star. Entangled finally while ashier of the Bank of California, he handed n his resignation to the directors one day, nd went down to the public baths near Pot- ero. A strong, athletic man, in he prime of life, he swam out alf a mile into the bay—for refresh- ment in his troubles, as some say, but, as he general opinion is, with the deliberate purpose of suicide—and was never again seen alive. The house that was his is notched nto a hill-side, in a rolling country, much pleasanter than the plain at Menlo Park. A pretty gorge behind it is dammed at a certain level to furnish the water supply. There are gas-works, a bowling-alley, and an elaborate Turkish bath among the outbuildings, and a grange-like barn of solid stone, ivy-grown now, which cost $80,000. As to the immense residence itself, that is of wood, white, in the usual fashion. With its numerous stories and windows, it is not unlike a large country hotel without, but its peculiar arrangements and great spaciousness within make it quite palatial. The principal rooms open into one another by glass partitions, which can be rolled away. There is no crowding through doorways. There is an arcade in the story above, around the grand staircase, with a bal- ustrade, in which young women in pink and corn-color at an evening party must look par- ticularly houri-like. What in any other house would be the ordinary veranda is here a de- lightful promenade, glazed in, provided with easy furniture and a parquetry floor. Then comes a tier of such main apartments as a drawing-room and library; then a parallel tier, of which one is a great gallery, entirely faced with mirrors. There are a piano, man- tels and stair-posts of California laurel.

In the Whole History of Medicine

No preparation has ever performed such marvellous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in throat and chest disorders, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and operation, physicians use the CHERRY PECTORAL extensively in their practice, and clergymen recommend it. It is absolutely certain in its healing effects, and will always cure where cures are possible.

For sale by all druggists.

Efforts are being made to start a foot ball club in Colorado Springs.

Messrs. Hundley & Low yesterday received a handsome new landau from Rochester, New York.

There was one drunk and disorderly up before Justice Pixley yesterday. He was fined $12.80.

Prof. J. H. Kerr left last Monday for Chinn. The professor expects to return home about the holidays.

Captain J. J. Lambert, of the Pueblo Chieftain, was in Colorado Springs yesterday calling on old acquaintances.

Dr. and Mrs. Rhoades, of Carey, Ohio, and Miss Lida Gump, of Denver, are doing Colorado Springs and surrounding points of interest.

Dr. G. E. Brooks returned yesterday morning from the Gunnison country, where he has spent the summer looking after his mining interests.

Company A's summer vacation is ended, and on Monday evening the doors of its armory will be thrown open, when all members are expected to be present.

There will be no performance at the opera house until the last week in this month, when Rose Eytinge will appear. Following Eytinge comes "The Professor," and "Esmeralda."

Mr. Wm. B. Young, the gentleman who started the first bank in this city, has just returned after an absence of six or seven years in the east and is very much surprised at the growth and prosperity of the city.

Next Thursday night the annual ball of the Colorado Springs Hook and Ladder company will be given in Court House hall. Everything that would in the least tend to make it a success has been done by the committee of arrangements.

A twelve million dollar mortgage from the Denver and New Orleans railway company to the Mercantile Trust company was yesterday filed in the county clerk's office. The document expires in 1921, and draws six per cent. interest, payable semi-annually in April and October.

Mr. Edward Ferris, the Pike's Peak avenue dry goods man, starts for the east to-day for the purpose of replenishing his stock of goods. He will spend at least six weeks in the markets of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, and will daily send the latest novelties to his store in this city.

The ladies of the "Hospital Aid society," of Denver, will give a reception and ball in that city on the 18th of this month, and Mrs. F. J. Bancroft, one of the committee of arrangements, requests us through our columns to extend an invitation to the friends of the society in this city to attend.

Mr. George R. Buckman has returned from the Indian festivities at Taos, New Mexico. He says that all the Pueblo Indians in the country were gathered together, and he pronounces it one of the most amusing events he ever attended. He will send an interesting account of it to some of the eastern papers.

George Swope, colored, was yesterday arraigned before Justice Bentley, charged with the theft of two horse collars and some straps from Mrs. Hand's ranch on the Divide. Swope plead not guilty to the charge and was granted a trial. Owing to the absence of two important witnesses the case was adjourned until this afternoon.

President Evans, of the Denver & New Orleans, in a letter directed to the citizens of Colorado Springs, and sent by Mr. B. A. P. Eaton, who returned from Denver on Thursday night, declares his intention of acting fairly in the right of way matter, providing the Fountain street route is a feasible one and will not involve the company in any additional cost.

Through a circular sent us by the officials of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railway, we learn of the appointment of Mr. C. M. Hampson as general agent of that company, with headquarters at Denver. He will have charge of all commercial and ticket matter for this section of the west. Mr. Hampson is a gentleman of considerable railroad experience, having been chief clerk in the passenger department of the Rio Grande for several years.

Dr. Mayo G. Smith has presented to Colorado College library more than fifty very valuable books, comprising rare and curious works, some of which are very ancient; certainly so in this new country. There is a French Bible, nearly two hundred years old, and a Latin folio printed in 1603. The greatest curiosity and the most valuable is an engraved copy of one of the oldest manuscripts of the Pentateuch, found at Nablous. There is only one man in America who can read it. To these gifts the doctor has added, among other things, a floral tribute from the neighborhood of Jerusalem; a fragment of Miles Standish's hearthstone, and an immense cowrie shell from the west coast. Few men have had so remarkable a career as our genial townsman, Dr. Smith. Whether a sea captain, navigating far off southern seas, or a clergyman, preaching sixty-five sermons in five weeks, or a dentist in Yankee land or Australia, or an emigrant to Palestine, or a pioneer in the most picturesque of Rocky Mountain parks, the doctor is always affable and entertaining.
